'Y' COMMITTEE, CLUB GROUP MEET

The Torrance YWCA committee met Wednesday with the executive board of Torrance Junior Woman's Club, their local sponsors, at the home of Mrs. Earl Clayton. Purpose of the meeting was to consider the application of Miss Lois Allsebrook, of San Pedro, to fill the position being vacated by the resignation of Miss Helen Lockwood, who has guided the activities of the young adult group during the past year.

It was decided to extend an invitation to Miss Allsebrook to come to Torrance and also to suggest to her that she work out a means of beginning work with a Y-teen group here.

Signed: Esther Millar, publicity chairman.

Cold Reduction Mill to Start Work This Fall

The $30,000,000 cold reduction sheet and tin plate mill in Pittsburgh works, Columbia Steel Company, is being readied for operation in the fall.

New equipment is being added to the buildings, and tin plating lines must be installed, a process that will take several months, steel officials stated.

When the mill is completed between 750 and 800 men will be employed at the plant addition.

Ten main structures will comprise the new mill which will cover a 25-acre addition to the present industry.

Workshop at Stanford on 'Leadership'

Blueprints for better democratic living will be discussed by 50 key leaders from California cities at the third Workshop on Community Leadership at Stanford University August 18-21.

The workshop program will highlight working techniques for achieving the primary goal of all community endeavor — the realization of the democratic ideals which characterize the American way of living.

Letters have been sent this week to presidents of district or local community organizations throughout the state, asking them to nominate persons for participation in the workshop on community leadership.

'Triple Play' Treatment for TB Given Try

Physicians and veterinarians of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., have launched a three-way drug attack against tuberculosis, in a new effort to find a better way of treating this dreaded disease.

Using laboratory animals, the investigators are testing streptomycin in combination with a sulfa-like drug and a vitamin preparation. Streptomycin is already known to be a valuable agent against tuberculosis, but germs are apt to become resistant to its action. A hoped-for result of giving the sulfa-like drug (promin) and the vitamin preparation (para-aminosalicylic acid) along with streptomycin is that the first two drugs will slow the appearance of resistant tuberculosis germs, thus giving streptomycin a chance to fight the germs more effectively.

Sees 125,000 New Homes in State in '48

There will be about 125,000 new homes completed in California during 1948, Vern R. Huck, president of the Building Contractors Association of California, predicts.

This will set a new all time record, Huck believes, and is the result of the "tremendous momentum" of residential building now taking place.

The builders have to depend upon outside sources for approximately 75 per cent of the materials used, Huck declares, and they are operating for the most part without the assistance of an important phase of the PHA home loan insurance.
